

Project History

The Military Family Housing Environmental Impact Analysis Process began in November of 2003. Since then, there have been several changes to the project scope, resulting in four iterations of the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS):

1st

Military Family Housing Demolition, Construction, Renovation, and Leasing (DCR & L) Program Draft EIS released April 2005

- Preferred Alternative involved Camp Pinchot Historic District demolition
- Preferred Alternative involved the development of the Camp Pinchot and Eglin Main Base Areas

Military Family Housing DCR & L Program Revised Draft EIS released April 2006

- Based on public/other agency comments and concerns, the Air Force reevaluated the Preferred Alternative and determined it was cost effective to adaptively reuse Camp Pinchot Historic District rather than seek demolition
- Preferred Alternative involved Camp Pinchot Historic District adaptive reuse
- Preferred Alternative involved the development of the Camp Pinchot and Eglin Main Base Areas

3rd

Military Housing Privatization Initiative (MHPI) Supplemental Draft EIS released June 2008

- New housing requirements analysis needed due to:
  - BRAC decisions resulting in increases in military personnel
  - Rising construction/insurance costs due to recent hurricanes
- Alternatives involved parcels on Eglin Main Base and Hurlburt Field

(CURRENT) Military Housing Privatization Initiative (MHPI) EIS – Draft EIS initiated

- New housing requirements analysis needed due to BRAC decision to beddown the F-35 aircraft at Eglin AFB
- Five locations proposed
- Alternatives located both on and off Eglin Main Base
